15 FINAL PROVISIONS

- 15.1 Unless otherwise stated in the Contract, any provision of these GTCP cannot be construed as a transfer of intellectual property rights by either Party or the establishment of any licence.
- 15.2 Each Party undertakes to inform the other Party immediately of any change of address. If a Party does not notify the change of address, deliveries made to the last address known to the other Party shall be deemed to be effective. The Party who does not notify of the change of address will be liable for damages caused by failure to comply with this obligation.
- 15.3 In case any of the provisions of the GTCP or the Contract are declared invalid due to illegality, ineffectiveness or unenforceability or if there is a gap in the GTCP or the Contract, the remaining provisions of the GTCP or the Contract shall remain valid and effective and the performance of the Contract shall be continued without this clause, unless material provisions of the GTCP or the Contract are affected by invalidity or it follows from its content that without the provisions affected by invalidity the Contract would not have been concluded. In such a case, the Parties undertake to replace such a provision with another valid and effective provision which, in terms of its economic and financial impact and the intentions of the Parties, shall be as close as possible to the provision affected by the nullity.
- 15.4 Any amendments to the Contract require, under pain of nullity, the same form in which the Contract was concluded. Any deviations from the GTCP require, under pain of invalidity, the explicit acceptance of the Buyer expressed in the form in which the Contract was concluded.
